The Maritime Direction is recognized by the French Sailing Federation for the organization of ocean races and events (Mini Transat, Figaro, Classic Transat...)

A word from the organizer - François Sérurier

Every year hundreds of boats cross the Atlantic from East to West, individually, racing, and in rallies.

Sailing with the wind and arriving under the hot sun of the Antilles attract thousands of sailors every year; the realization of a dream for many.

After a season of exploring the tropics it's time to think of the return voyage.

Some people choose to return their boat by cargo, but most return by sea. Returning between April and June is less "safe" in terms of weather, and enthusiasm for the voyage is more "moderate".

A third edition :

Many owners and crews wish to have an organized West-East rally with a Maritime Authority which ensures that each participant is tracked from their departure from the Caribbean to their arrival in their home port.

A rally allows a crossing with a maximum security factor with a stop in the famous archipelago of the Azores.

A friendly welcome awaits in Guadeloupe with tourist opportunities and support for your preparation a week before you depart. A stop at Ponta Delgada in the Azores provides a few days rest and allows you to enjoy the Island of Sao Miguel, before leaving on the day you wish for your final destination.

The Atlantic Back Cruising Organization is happy to provide this unique event, organizing you a crossing that is both sociable and friendly but most importantly as safe as possible.

The two first editions has been a fantastic success, the third one will be better !
